

whatever happened to one-night-stands?

since the world's turning men's always been yearning for someone to make him complete sharing your life as husband and wife has proved for some to be neat but some of us are scared of commitment and choose to be single instead still there is so much room left in our bed they met in a bar (that's quite normal so far) they got stuck in a communication fond of each other they like one another but it's no big sensation then one of them gives a sort of a yawn the other one understands surprising is just the accordance by which that night ends

oh,oh,oooh, whatever happened to one-night-stands?
oh,oh,oooh, whatever happened to one-night-stands?
how did they lose their attraction to us?
when did we lose our affection for lust?

i can only say how it's for me personally i have to admit that i'm into that romance-shit hold someone in my arms who got all the needed charms who makes my very day
who'll never go away

i know it's utopia but still it seems to be right i know it's utopia but still it seems so right i know it's utopia but it seems so pure and right all right!

oh,oh,oooh, whatever happened to one-night-stands?
oh,oh,oooh, whatever happened to one-night-stands?
how did they lose their attraction to us?
when did we lose our affection for lust?